FOUR BASIC PRINCIPLES OF BICYCLE SAFETY

1. Maintain control of your bicycle—most bicycling injuries do not involve a crash with a motor vehicle. Bicyclists are more likely to fall or hit fixed objects such as a mailbox or parked car. Never ride while under the influence of alcohol or drugs.
2. Ride on the right, with traffic, in a predictable manner—most crashes with motor vehicles occur at intersections and driveways where bicyclists and motorists cross paths.
3. Be visible and ride alertly—even if you ride responsibly, some motorists may not see you.
4. Protect yourself—wear a helmet to reduce the risk of head injury in the event of a crash.

AVOID THESE PRACTICES:

- Darting suddenly onto the roadway
- Riding against traffic
- Riding on sidewalks

Our Quick Riders Guide

Maybe you're looking for a little exercise, want to run some "green" errands, or are planning a fun, family activity? It's good to know the easiest and safest routes around Pendleton when you're traveling on a bicycle.

In addition to choosing a route, remember to use safe riding principles. You can pick up a copy of the Oregon Bicyclist Manual at the local DMV. We've also listed some basic tips on the back of this brochure.

Remember, all riders under 16 riding a bike in any public place must wear a helmet under Oregon law.

Pendleton Bike Lanes, Trails & Routes

Pendleton's urban bicycle system includes bike trails, bike lanes and bike routes. Each has distinct characteristics that you'll want to understand before you select a route. This map also shows proposed routes for future construction.

BIKE LANES: These are city streets that have designated lanes for travel alongside but separate from automobile traffic.

BIKE TRAILS: Pendleton's bike trails, like the Pendleton River Parkway, are asphalt paths that are designated non-motorized traffic only and that are shared with pedestrians. These also include existing multi-use paths in parks like Community and Grecian Heights Park.

BIKE ROUTES: Bike routes are non-designated paths of travel that traffic planners "anticipate" riders will choose for convenience or because traffic patterns are lighter.
